THE LIVESTOCK AND POULTRY SHOW

A LEGACY SPANNING 82 YEARS

The Livestock Show was established by J.W. Fisher, director of the College of Agriculture; Tom J. Jordan, Extension Agent, state cooperative extension agents, along with a group of statewide vocational agricultural teachers, agricultural extension workers, and community leaders. The show began as a poultry show. A dairy calf project was added in the second year. That same year, the name was changed to the State Poultry and Dairy Show. The exhibitors were youth from limited-resource families.

Since 1943, Southern University has upheld the tradition of providing an opportunity for youth, throughout the State of Louisiana, to gain valuable knowledge and skills at the Annual State Livestock and Poultry Show. The SU Ag Center's State Livestock Show is the premiere event for youth to display showmanship and quality animals. For 81 years, the program has made a positive impact on the state and its citizens. The show has contributed enormously to the total agricultural industry and economy of the state of Louisiana.

The purpose of the show is to:

- Stimulate a greater interest in increasing the production of livestock among farmers in Louisiana;
- Serve as a basis for improving breeding practices for livestock;
- Create an interest in producing livestock products as a business enterprise;
- Assist in developing a better spirit of a cooperative effort among rural and urban residents;
- Provide an opportunity for youth to develop ownership and leadership skills.

This time-honored, family tradition carries a strong legacy of providing an excellent opportunity for the youth of Louisiana to exhibit their prize livestock. This exhibition has also become an important means of providing youth with valuable life skills that will prepare them for whatever career path they may choose to pursue.
